

Ostendorf collection O-85c

THE ODD LUMP ON HIS LOWER LIP is visible in this vignette photograph by Mathew B. Brady, Washington, D. C., Friday, January 8, 1864. The entire photograph, one of a series of five taken by Brady on January 8, 1864, has never come to light. Made with a four-lens camera, as were the other poses on the same day, it is quite different from the similar portrait on the following page (O-83). In comparing them, notice the entirely different expression, the wave in the hair, and the space between the collar and neck.