

Ostendorf collection Enlargement of O-116c

HIS GNARLED HANDS FIDGET during the last sitting. First publication of the entire photograph from Gardner's proof print. Lincoln's long right leg is grotesquely enlarged by the camera lens. The President holds his spectacles and a pencil, both blurred, showing that he moved his fingers nervously during the exposure.